[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO OCTOBER 14.

Money Report.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The Post's money article says gold is lower to-day, partly in consequence of a desire to realize, on the part of weak holders, but chiefly because of the report that Government was about to sell, or was actually selling. The price has gone down, but closed with an upward tendency. The loan market is rather more active, but with an abundant supply. Rates are unchanged. Call loans range at 5 to 6 per cent. discount. Stocks are dull. Government securities quiet and no disposition to sell.

Fenian Talk.

BUFFALO, Oct. 16.—The Commercial of this city has intelligence that the Fenians organized an attempt to cross the Niagara river at Lewiston on Saturday, to burn the village of Queenstown and blow up Brock's Monument, but were prevented by information that the Canadians were ready to receive them. The whole thing is doubtless a canard.

Great Fire at Quebec.

QUEBEC, Oct 16.—At a public meeting called to devise means for the relief of the sufferers by the late fire, $16,600 was subscribed. The number of lives lost was six, and the number of houses burned, two thousand three hundred. Nearly twenty thousand people are without shelter; the weather is, however, very favorable.

European News.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The steamer Scotia brings the following news: A Florence dispatch says the following are the principal conditions of the treaty of peace between Austria and Italy. The frontiers to be added to Italy, are those which constituted the frontiers of Venetia while under Austrian rule.

The amount of debt assumed by Italy is thirty-five millions of florins, payable in eleven instalments in twenty-three months. Venetia is transferred to Italy with its assets and liabilities. Its assets are three millions five hundred thousand, and its liabilities sixty-three million florins. Until further arrangements, the revenues of the railroad north and south of the Alps, will be allowed to accumulate to serve as the basis for a valuation. Measures are to be taken to separate the net work of the railways and complete the unfinished portion. The Venetians residing in Austria are to have the right of preserving their Austrian nationality if they desire to do so. All objects of art, as well as the archives belonging to Venetia, will be restored. The iron crown of Lombardy will also be given up to Italy. The treaties which formerly existed between Austria and Sardinia will again come into force for a year, during which period fresh arrangements can be concluded. Private property belonging to Italian persons which had been sequestered by the Italian Government is to be restored with reserves of rights of the State for one-third. A complete amnesty will be accorded by both Austria and Italy to all persons condemned for political offences, to deserters from either army, and to persons compromised by their political conduct.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—The following is a copy of a private dispatch received in this city:

SALT LAKE, Oct. 20, 8 P. M.—A second break is reported to-night about 30 miles west of Julesburg. It is said the line is destroyed by Indians for 8 miles. The trouble is undoubtedly quite severe. The Indians seem to have left after destroying the line. We shall run a messenger over the break. The weather here and east as far as we can learn, is cold and stormy.

At a wine growers' meeting yesterday Mr. Schmidt of Kohler & Frohling, Mr. Dreyfus of the Anaheim Wine Growers' Association, and J. Ross Browne, were appointed as commissioners to make arrangements for the State Wine Growers' Convention, to be held in this city November 1st.

A contract of much importance to San Francisco and to the commerce of the north Pacific, was signed and closed yesterday. It is for the construction of a stone dry-dock, at Hunter's Point, on the low neck of land, with an area of about 10 acres at the eastern end of South street tract. The point is about four miles southward from the City Hall, and men familiar with dry-docks, express the opinion that it is admirably suited for the purpose, and are astonished that a dock has not been built before. The parties to construct it are a wealthy company, including some of the leading capitalists and representatives of the State who are to own the dock. It is to be the longest stone dock in the world. The contract price for it is $250,000.

The number of deaths in the city last week was 63.

The steamer Oriflamme arrived from Portland to-day.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—The trial of Charles P. Duane, indicted for the murder of Wm. G. Ross, is progressing in the 12th District Court to-day. Upon opening of court Mr. Reynolds, one of the jurors, stated that telegraphic reports had been published in the Sacramento Union, stating that it was understood that the jury would disagree. He stated that Mr. Nicholson, one of the reporters, had called on the reporter, who had apologized for sending the telegram, but said in justification that it was the common street talk that one of the jurors was a friend of Duane and would not allow his conviction.

Judge Pratt in reply said that he had full confidence in the jury and every member, and believed that they would do their duty in the premises and be governed entirely by law and evidence. He cautioned them against allowing themselves to be swayed by any outside influence or newspaper comments. It was not strange that such remarks should be made considering the notoriety of the case, but the jury should pay no attention to them. The indictment was then read, after which District Attorney Porter introduced Judge Hardy, who would assist in the prosecution at the request of the friends of the deceased, Wm. G. Ross. The District Attorney then opened the case in behalf of the people. He explained to the jury the different grades of murder, related at length the circumstances which he expected to prove and contended that defendant would be found guilty of murder in the first degree, provided his statement of the case proved correct.

Horrible Murder.

CORVALLIS, Oct. 22.—A man, name unknown, was found murdered ten miles from this place yesterday. He had been killed with an axe and covered with straw and then set on fire. No clue to the murder as yet.

STATE ITEMS.

The Idaho World publishes some statistics in regard to the agricultural products of Grand Ronde Valley which we reproduce: From Mr. J. R. Wilkinson, a large flouring mill owner of La Grande, in Grand Ronde Valley, we have obtained some very interesting statistics and information of the present produce and future prospects of that noted Valley. The total product of the Valley for this year of grain alone, is over 1,000,000 bushels, of which 500,000 bushels are wheat, and the remainder mostly oats, with a little corn and barley. The total quantity of flour will be full 100,000 barrels—almost entirely made from white wheat of superior quality. There are now three flouring mills in the Valley, and two more will soon be in active operation. Mr. Wilkinson's mill alone will turn out 12,000 barrels of flour, from this year's wheat. In addition to this large quantity of grain—furnishing sufficient flour to supply this whole upper country—over 100,000 lbs. of bacon have been made in the Valley, and a very large quantity of hay. Several persons are preparing to engage heavily in the bacon trade next year, and the prospects for a far greater future supply are most favorable. The wheat product is certainly surprising. The average yield per acre the present year has been a trifle over thirty-seven bushels—in some places fifty and sixty bushels per acre. The average product of oats was about seventy-five bushels, and in one small area, full one hundred and ten bushels per acre!

The Eugene Journal says that some fine specimens of gold-bearing quartz were brought to that town last week by Mr. Neff. The quartz was obtained on the north Umpqua river, near its source. It is thickly sprinkled with the glittering ore, and begets visions of wealth in the minds of the discoverers. There are prospectors out in that region now, and we hope they may be eminently successful.

The State Journal learns that on Thursday last, Mr. Groby, one of the employees in the Springfield mills, had his hand badly mutilated by the circular saw. He lost a portion of three fingers, and his hand was cut nearly through, the saw running between the thumb and index finger.

The Democrat states that the gross receipts of the Linn County Agricultural Association at their late Fair, amount to $2,422 72, and the amount paid in awarding premiums was $800 37. The various bills, &c. used in improving the grounds, will consume the remainder of the receipts.

The State Journal is of opinion that from present indications the young man who runs the Statesman will soon have nothing to do but to sing the "lay of the last subscriber." Democrats are afraid of the Statesman, and Union men won't have it.

A HARD ONE.—An exchange, in speaking of the rumor that President Johnson had intended to "swing around the circle" in Lincoln's funeral car, asks: "How would Judas have looked sleeping in the deserted sepulchre of our Savior?"

Letter from Forest Grove.

Editor Oregonian—Dear Sir:—In years past we have from time to time, as our school has gone forward, dropped you a line for the public eye, noting our condition, progress and prospects. This practice we continue.

Our condition and progress are much the same as for two or three years past at this time of the year, though somewhat more encouraging. The number of students pursuing the regular collegiate course is larger than ever before. Their progress thus far has been rapid and thorough, and marked with a high degree of interest. The students have not only been industrious, but as a general fact orderly and cheerful in fulfilling duty.

We have special encouragement just now, on account of the arrival of Prof. Collier from the East. He will enter at once upon the discharge of his duties as Professor of the Natural Sciences. We feel confident from his past experience and success in teaching, and his ripe scholarship, that he will do a good work here. Our second quarter is just commencing, the regular time being the 17th of October in both departments—the University and Female Seminary—but will be deferred till Monday, the 22d, on account of the State Fair.

The Female Seminary is going forward successfully under the instruction of Mrs. A. Reasoner, formerly Miss Locey, who has taught at Dalles for some time past.

The new college building is in part completed, and a few rooms ready for occupation. We think that now, rooming and boarding arrangements can be had—comfortable, and sufficient for all who may come here wishing to enjoy the privileges of our schools. Yours, etc.,

HORACE LYMAN.

TUESDAY MORNING OCTOBER 2[illegible], 1866

In Vino Veritas

During more than a year past the American public have had rare opportunities to see this ancient adage verified If at any time the curious have had a doubt as to what shape "the policy" would next assume they have only had to wait until the potations of its author should become frequent enough and deep enough to loosen his tongue and enable him to explain While in a state of sobriety he knows how to gloze and deceive, but the moment he swallows his eight bottles of wine (this was his share at the Delmonico banquet) he is in a condition to declare his real sentiments and make known his secret thoughts and purposes Andrew Johnson sober is not the real Andrew Johnson If we wish to know anything about him we must consult him when he is under the influence of his peculiar inspiration He can then tell the truth about himself and his policy Had the idea so sententiously expressed by the words in vino veritas never before been thought of, it would have been suggested a hundred times within the last year to every American, by an observation of the peculiarities of Andrew Johnson

Besides this adage, there was of old a saying that no man could be implicitly trusted in all situations who had not been tried with wine so that he might be afforded an opportunity, while under its influence, of disclosing his real nature and revealing the secret passions of his soul. Horace, in his "Art of Poetry," has an allusion to this idea His language is thus turned into English by Roscommon

> Wise were the kings who never chose a friend
> Till with full cups they had unmasked his soul,
> And seen the bottom of his deepest thoughts.

Had our present Chief Magistrate been tried by this test, it is not very probable that he would now be where he is Had he been "put to the rack with wine," and the experiment made public, the truth in regard to him would have come out in time to prevent his having a place with Lincoln on the ticket of the National Union party

There is a feeling of uncertainty, not to say solicitude, in the public mind to know what Johnson will do next The public will probably not have to wait long to know. He may now be lingering over his cups preparing himself for some new announcement If he is meditating the coup his rebel friends are urging him up to, it is not unlikely that he may, in his next fit of inebriety, deliver a harangue making a full disclosure of his purposes The country is prepared to hear anything from him We may expect to learn something more about "the policy" the very next time he becomes inspired so that he can speak The wisdom of the ancients who originated the proverb in vino veritas, was never so apparent as it has become in our times

Representation

The Copperheads are daily growing more importunate to have the rebels brought into Congress They are wasting any amount of effort to show that the South is entitled to representation Wouldn't it help them to a right understanding of the subject to consider just for a moment how those States got out of Congress? It is nowhere recorded that the Radicals put them out They went out of their own choice, and in spite of the most urgent entreaty to stay. And now, after having been out for some years, and having in the meantime been engaged in the amusement of trying to turn everybody else out and establish a Confederate Congress at Washington, they essay to come back with the same freedom with which they took their departure, and when told to wait, feel injured and become indignant at the little consideration that is shown them. For several years they declared that they were out, and would never come back. Now, they assert that they never were out, and are surprised to find that anybody will have the presumption to question their being in They refused for some years to send members to Congress. It was no hardship at all to stay out No "Southern gentleman" would have stooped to the dishonor of presenting himself to the "Lincoln Government" as a Senator or Representative In those days they didn't quote from the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States to prove their right to representation Their Copperhead allies were also silent on this important subject. Their whole aim was to prevent the South from being represented But times have changed now, and what was the full enjoyment of liberty once, has become the most oppressive tyranny. Once it was esteemed by the chivalrous sons of the South a high honor and a most exalted privilege to have a chance to vacate their seats in Congress and rush away to Dixie swearing never to come back, but in the mutations of things they have come to regard it as a piece of the most flagrant injustice to be temporarily kept out of the seats which they left in disgust in 1860 At that time it was their opinion that none but slaves would submit to the dictation of the "Lincoln Government" and consent to sit in its Congress. It is now their opinion that the keeping them out of Congress is a species of treatment that none but slaves would submit to.

Since the close of the rebellion, the Democratic doctrine has been that they were not out That being the case, there is no occasion to let them in—at least till the people get ready to do it.

OUR SALEM LETTER.

ADJOURNMENT OF THE LEGISLATURE.

SALEM, Oct. 21, 1866.

EDITOR OREGONIAN

At about ten minutes before twelve o'clock, last night, the two houses of the Legislative Assembly adjourned sine die, having been forty-one days in session The last day, as usual, was an extremely busy one and, occasionally, one of confusion. There were the usual entanglements between the two houses, about refusals to concur in amendments, insisting on concurrence, in falling back on dignity, appointment of committees of conference, final amicable agreement, passing the measure and everybody happy The general appropriation bill was not passed finally until very near the last hour, on account of one of these entanglements, and a good many people who had a bread and butter interest in it had begun to be extremely uneasy. The committee of conference, having agreed upon a basis of agreement, their report was adopted, and again the little world here breathed freer

The number of bills passed is not large, nor are many of them of great length or importance The Senate could have cleared its files and that of the House easily, had the House cleared its own and sent its business in before the last two or three days The school and the registry bills, lie buried fathoms deep under the untouched business on the House files Quite a number of others are entombed in the same manner, resulting from the factious determination of the Democracy to consume time and thus make it impossible to get down to the registry and school bills The bill to aid in the construction of the "Oregon Central Railroad," fared better getting through, with some bruises and batterings, on the last day It is doubtful what would have been its fate, but for a number of petitions from the people which made themselves felt on its passage This bill is an important one not only on account of the aid proposed to a measure of vital importance to the State but because it involves the question as to the power of the Legislature to grant aid at all, under our constitution On its passage several of the chronic sticklers for strict construction, waived their usual objections and voted for the bill I will, if possible, soon send you a copy of the act for publication

A SENSATION FOLLOWED BY ANOTHER.

During the afternoon and evening an unusual passage occurred which stirred up a good deal of feeling and excitement. Two bills introduced by Mr Hendershott, of Union, were unaccountably missing, and Mr Dolph having been reported as saying that he had the bills within his power the Democracy with their usual aptitude for [illegible] banks for political effect at once set about getting up a first class sensation charging Senator Dolph with having criminally got possession of them A committee was appointed in the House to investigate the charge After an ex parte hearing the committee reported unfavorably to Mr Dolph Upon the question of adopting the report, a hearing of Mr Dolph and all the known witnesses was had, when it soon appeared most clearly that the whole charge was as baseless as the fabric of a dream and the sensation so far as Mr Dolph was concerned, was very thoroughly squelched Not so however as regarded Mr Hendershott, the principal mover in the prosecution of the charge against Mr Dolph It appeared in the course of the investigation that Mr H had taken the two bills in the afternoon to the President of the Senate to get his signature to them which the President refused without knowing at the time what bills they were on the ground that they did not come to him in the regular official mode, by message from the House I think I am correct in saying that at that time one of the bills had not passed finally and the other had been once passed by both houses, signed by both presiding officers but afterwards reconsidered by the Senate and indefinitely postponed These facts came out in Mr Cornelius testimony On this statement, Mr Cranston, immediately offered a resolution to censure Mr Hendershott for an attempt to fraudulently secure the President's signature to the bills Thus Mr H found himself suddenly let down from the position of a prosecutor on a charge of criminal conduct, to that of a quasi culprit under a charge of attempted fraud However, it soon appeared to the satisfaction of the greater part of the Senate, that Mr Hendershott's greatest fault in the premises, was his ignorance of the then condition of the bills and of the proper mode of presenting them to the presiding officer for his signature, and Mr Cranston's resolution was indefinitely postponed by a vote of 12 to 3 Thus ended the last of the thousand and one political and personal sensations of this session The rapidity with which these things all passed, each at first, with looming and portentous aspect, and then suddenly collapsed like the feathers of a conquered and wet barn-yard fowl, had enough of the ludicrous in it to quite overcome the seriousness of the initial proceedings

THE GOOD BYE.

The members parted, in most cases, in amicable humor, but there are perhaps a few, between whom bitterness have been engendered which may last a life-time. Mr Cornelius before declaring the Senate adjourned, made a brief speech, returning his thanks to the Senators for their constant courtesy to him and for their material aid in conducting the business of the Senate He alluded in a very neat manner to the pleasure he should hereafter have in recalling to mind the associations of this session I am informed that Mr Chenoweth left his position with a similar tender of thanks and regards My impression is that this was to Mr C, the most decidedly pleasurable moment he has seen since assuming the chair, for, no Speaker within my knowledge, was ever so bedeviled by an unruly floor

A CORRECTION

Don't fail, on any account, to say that my remarks in yesterday's letter about Mrs Ellen Bouton, an equestrian contestant, should have been made about Mrs Weigle The mistake occurred through the clerk who entered her name on the books I suppose he erred innocently enough on account of the similarity of the words I

A POSTSCRIPT TO THE STATE FAIR.

A great number of people remained on the ground Friday night, kept there partly by the impossibility of getting away, and partly through the attractions of the circus, "the smallest woman in the world, and the strangest animal," "the wonderful, educated, card playing pig," etc, etc including all the shows, public and private

Saturday was devoted to the morally elevating pastime of scrub racing and relieving each other of small amounts of cash, just because the parties couldn't all agree before trial, as to which of any two or three given horses could transfer himself and rider from one given point to another in the briefest time Served the losers right for being opinionated

Buisley, a member of the Buisley family and son of his father, made a fool of himself on Sunday morning by attaching himself to a balloon which was about to start for a little trip up among the clouds. He turned wriggles and twists on his trapeze bar for ten or fifteen minutes at various heights, ranging all the way from five feet eight, to a quarter of a mile, and then found himself and balloon in the corner of a neighboring fence—so I am told At all this the people hurrahed, though it had cost them each and severally a dollar Perhaps it was worth it If Buisley, of the celebrated Buisley family, had turned a hundred thousand or so of somersaults between his trapez and the ground, I am sure nobody could have grumbled, unless, perchance, it might have been Buisley, himself But Buisley is gone, and so is "the smallest woman and the strangest animal," and so is the "wonderful, educated, card playing pig," and so is every other amusement and wonderment, and now the lately animated Fair grounds are as vacant and desolate as the "deserted village" of poetic fame

OREGON LEGISLATURE.

Fourth Regular Session.

House.

SALEM SATURDAY, Oct 20th 1866

House met at 8½ o'clock A M, Speaker CHENOWETH in the chair

BILLS

The bill to authorize towns, cities and counties to aid in the construction of public improvements came up on its third reading

Mr HELM said he was a friend to the bill but was opposed to passing upon it now as he observed that a quorum was not present

Mr FOUDRAY The House is not now meeting after an adjournment but simply reconvening after a recess taken early this morning—soon after 12 o'clock There are more than twenty four members present, and consequently the bill can be passed by the constitutional majority

Mr HUMASON The House had a quorum when the recess was taken, and as there has been no call of the House ordered since it is to be presumed that there is still a quorum present

Mr GEHR moved a call of the House

Mr OLNEY. A call of the House was ordered just before the recess was taken, and that call is still pending The House is now transacting business by general consent, pending the call

The bill passed by 25 ayes to 2 nays.

The bill to aid the Corvallis and Yaquina Bay road Company passed, 21 ayes to 1 nay

The Senate bill to amend the charter of Salem was lost. 6 ayes to 20 nays

Mr OLNEY desired to call up the bill to secure the results of elections and to regulate the manner of contesting the offices of members of the Legislature and of Governor Secretary of State and State Treasurer

Mr HELM objected and the bill laid over.

The bill appropriating six hundred dollars to complete files of reports in the State library passed unanimously

Mr STARKWEATHER I hope the gentlemen will take up the bill to secure the result of elections If they do not like it they can vote against it

Mr HELM and others objected

Mr Starkweather then moved to suspend the rules and take up the bill

Mr HELM moved a call of the House

Mr STARKWEATHER withdrew his motion and Mr HELM then withdrew his motion

Mr HENDERSHOTT desired to call up the bill to require quarterly reports from the Secretary of State to which Mr STARKWEATHER objected

Mr HENDERSHOTT I consider the bill of great importance, and one which no one can refuse to support

Mr STARKWEATHER withdrew his objections as an accommodation to gentlemen who are interested in the bill.

Mr STOUFFER I will object to the bill then myself I will object to every bill that may be desired by that side of the House, if they do not treat this House with more courtesy

Mr FOUDRAY moved a call of the House.

Mr HUMASON remonstrated against it, and it was withdrawn

Messrs WHITE and HUMASON hoped Mr Hendershott's bill would be taken up

Mr HINMAN Other good bills have been objected to arbitrarily and I shall object to this

Mr HENDERSHOTT moved to proceed with the regular order of business.

Mr OLNEY It is my opinion that unless we go back to where we were ten minutes ago we will get no more bills We were proceeding smoothly along when in an instant we were surprised with objections from gentlemen who seem determined to take that means of preventing all legislation which does not suit them in all respects We have before us an immense pile of bills many of which are quite lengthy and of little importance Now unless we can go on and select out those of the most value which we can act upon within the short time which now remains we may as well quit right here

Mr HELM expressed his willingness to hear the bill in relation to contested elections read

Mr HENDERSHOTT withdrew his motion and the bill was then read and considerable discussion followed upon it, Messrs Helm and Gehr opposing and Mr Upton advocating it

Mr OLNEY I now see that this bill cannot pass at this form, and rather than have it defeated I will now move to lay it on the table The motion prevailed

The bill to amend the law to provide for the registration of married women was passed, 31 ayes to 2 nays

The bill amending the charter of Portland so as to place the marshal's election in the hands of the people and to give $200 salary to members of the city council was returned from the Senate with an amendment striking out the latter clause.

Mr ROSENHEIM I move that the House do not concur in the amendment

A motion to concur was made and carried—22 ayes to 4 nays

The bill to amend the charter of Portland in relation to sewers was also returned with an amendment striking out the clause excepting the gulch near the old penitentiary which was concurred in.

The bill requiring the Secretary of State to credit counties with delinquent taxes passed

Mr HENDERSHOTT at 12:10 A M, moved to take a recess till 1 o'clock P M

Mr HELM. I prefer to adjourn sine die

The motion prevailed

AFTERNOON

The bill to revise section 54 of the code was passed

The bill to regulate and tax foreign insurance companies was taken up and discussed at [illegible]

Mr STOUFFER moved [illegible] the bill

Mr HENDERSHOTT moved to adjourn for just three minute

Mr WHITE moved a call of the House

Mr HENDERSHOTT I will state for the information of the House that the sergeant [illegible] of the members are drunk [Laughter]

The SPEAKER stated that the Senate had returned the general appropriation bill with the [illegible] which should be attended to

Mr WHITE'S motion was ruled out of order as a call of the House was already pending and Mr HENDERSHOTT'S motion was ruled out of order as not proper pending a call of the House

Mr GEHR moved to elect an assistant sergeant-at-arms

Mr LOCKHART stated that the sergeant-at-arms was also in search of members

Mr HENDERSHOTT I will only mention that the Sergeant-at-Arms is not expecting that the House would [illegible] whom he has taken for many years [Laughter]

Mr HINDMAN I nominate Dr Loryea to be elected Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms. He has been around here long enough to know all the [illegible] and I feel safe in recommending him as a good man for the position [Laughter]

Mr HUMASON I object to that as he already has an office—around the corner here [Renewed laughter]

The SPEAKER called the House to order

The Senate amendments to the appropriation bill—to appropriate $1 000 for salary of the Adjutant General $30 000 for Penitentiary building fund and $3 000 to purchase the right to use the Gardner shackle were taken up and after some discussion the House refused to concur in them—[illegible] ayes to [illegible] nays

Mr CARR was elected Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms and sworn into office

Mr LOCKHART desired to call up the bill to regulate the manner of letting contracts for the care of the insane and idiotic Messrs Hendershott, Humason and Gehr opposed it as unnecessary. They thought the present arrangement a good one and if further legislation should become necessary it might be done at the next session

Messrs LOCKHART, UPTON and LOCEY contended that in order to enable any one to bid against the present contractors it would be necessary to provide, as proposed in this law, for the letting of the next contract long enough before this expires to enable the contractor to erect the necessary buildings as the Legislature would not meet till within three months of the close of the present contract and then it would be too late to pass such a law Thus the present contractors would be enabled to exact exorbitant prices from the State

Mr ROLAND opposed the whole contracting system and urged that the State should erect buildings and take the matter in its own charge

The House refused to take up the bill by 16 ayes to 14 nays—not a two thirds vote

Mr HENDERSHOTT I have a resolution which I wish to offer Two bills which I introduced here and which passed both Houses have mysteriously disappeared before receiving the signature of the President of the Senate I understand that some chuckle-headed demagogues have stolen the bills and now threaten me if I don't support some of their favorite measures my bills shall not become a law

The resolution proposed to instruct the Clerk to make out a new copy of the bills

Mr OLNEY suggested that if the original bills could not be found they might be re-enrolled from the engrossed bills

The resolution was adopted unanimously The bills in question were the one to drain funds in Union county and another to repeal the law to prevent hogs from running at large in Union county

At 4.30 P M, on motion of Mr FOUDRAY the House took a recess till 7 o'clock P M

EVENING

Mr HENDERSHOTT arose to a question of privilege and stated that he could prove by three persons that Senator Dolph had purloined his bills He offered a resolution for the arrest of Mr Dolph and directing him to be brought before the House to answer the charges against him

Mr UPTON thought the resolution premature The House should first be put in possession of the proof before being called upon to launch a resolution on the records

Mr LOCKHART took a similar view of it

Messrs HUMASON and KNIBELY urged the adoption of the resolution

A substitute for the resolution offered by Mr HENDERSHOTT at the suggestion of Mr OLNEY was adopted referring the matter to a special committee of three with instructions to report to the House as soon as possible

Messrs FOUDRAY, GINGLES and WHITE were appointed

Mr WHITE declined and Mr GARLICK was appointed in his stead He also declined saying that he felt too well convinced that there was no truth in the charges to serve on the committee.

Mr GEHR I suggest that Mr Rosenheim be appointed on the committee

The SPEAKER So long as the Chair has the appointing power he will make such appointments as he sees fit

Mr OLNEY I have just received a note informing me that H B No 111—in relation to the insane—is also missing and I ask that the committee inquire into that matter also

A message from the Senate announced the refusal of that body to recede from its amendments to the appropriation bill and the appointment of a committee of conference on the subject.

Messrs HUMASON and UPTON were appointed such committee on the part of the House.

A short recess was taken after which Mr HUMASON from the committee of conference on the appropriation bill reported an agreement upon striking out the Penitentiary building fund and retaining the other Senate amendments

The House, on motion of Mr OLNEY, concurred in the report

The committee on the missing bills reported that they had discovered foundations for the charges against Mr Dolph but owing to the lateness of the hour and the nearness of the close of the session, they recommended that no further action be taken in the matter

Mr HUMASON moved that the report be received, and the committee discharged.

Mr GARLICK asked whether Mr Dolph had been allowed to appear before the committee

Mr GINGLES stated that he had not been cited to appear before the committee

Mr FOUDRAY said it was true that Mr Dolph had not been invited before the committee, but they had received the testimony of several parties, and he thought the committee justified in making the report they had

Messrs. GARLICK, OLNEY and UPTON opposed, and Mr. HUMASON urged the reception of the report.

After some considerable talk a resolution was adopted to admit witnesses before the House whereupon Messrs Cornelius (President of the Senate), Clark, White, Hendershott Ford Peebles (Chief Clerk of the Senate), Patton Upton and Dolph were examined.

It appeared from the testimony that the charge rested upon a bantering remark which Mr. Dolph had made while in conversation with Messrs Upton White and Loryea before the evening session It also appeared from the testimony of the President and Chief Clerk of the Senate, that the bills in question had not been out of the possession of the Senate. Accordingly, Mr. Olney offered a resolution dismissing the matter as wholly unfounded, which was agreed to

A motion to adjourn sine die at 12 o'clock was agreed to.

Mr HENDERSHOTT offered a resolution tendering the thanks of the House to J F McCoy and J A. Waymire for their faithful, impartial and able reports of the proceedings of the House. Adopted

Mr GEHR said he voted for it though he did not believe it. [Laughter]

Mr HERMAN offered a resolution tendering regards to Hon F A Chenoweth for the impartial manner in which he had presided over the deliberations of the House. Adopted

A resolution of thanks to all the officers of the House was also adopted.

On motion of Mr OLNEY a committee consisting of Messrs Olney Knebly and Micklin, was appointed to examine the journals after adjournment

Mr ROSENHEIM offered a resolution of thanks to the silent members of the House, which, on motion of Mr Humason, was made the special order for to morrow [Laughter]

On motion of Mr HUMASON, at 11:40 the House adjourned sine die

The SPEAKER, in making the announcement said Gentlemen of the House of Representatives—In closing up the labors of this somewhat eventful session, I cannot refrain from an expression of the heartfelt gratitude I feel for the urbanity, kindness and consideration you have been pleased to extend to the chair throughout our sittings The difficulties we have encountered from the beginning to the close of our session may not be duly appreciated by our constituents. It rarely happens—very rarely—that so many exciting questions come up for consideration as have been presented to us at the present session The election of a Senator to the Congress of the United States is at all times a matter of the deepest interest and one that enlists the rankest party feeling but in this case matters of a personal consideration bade fair to rend to atoms all political organization

The passage of a constitutional amendment was a measure fraught with as many combustible elements as could well enter into any question and that men's passions should be deeply excited with political feeling and so kept for a considerable time with the usual outbursts of angry debate is but natural To aggravate our difficulties we have had an unusually large number of contested seats to settle than which nothing is more calculated to arouse the ugliest feelings of our nature With all those deeply exciting questions to dispose of some one of which has been before the House at all times and in nearly every stage of its deliberations It is not strange that our discussions have been characterized with warmth and earnestness unusual to grave legislators

Added to this is another circumstance that has contributed very largely to the disquiet and restless temper of the House The fact that the two political parties have been so equally distributed in strength Neither party has at all times been able to claim a decided majority but both parties with a sleepless vigilance watching each other for opportunities for a trial of strength and crossing of swords Under all these circumstances it is not wonderful that our deliberations should have been at all times boisterous and full of those high sparring passions which occasions of this kind invariably draw out

The duties and responsibilities of the Chair have been weighty That they have been performed in a manner to meet entire satisfaction could not be hoped for But that they have been done to the best of my ability I feel certain The complimentary resolution you have been pleased to place upon the record is perhaps more than I deserve but such is usual. I would feel happy to know that I had merited it at your hands The assistance you have so cordially rendered me in the duties of my office has endeared you to me and the remembrance of your kindness will ever be cherished by me

It receiving for the Speaker were good bye members took leave of each other and separated Thus at 12 o'clock M closed the Fourth Regular Session of the Oregon Legislature in the House

[Our report of the proceedings in the Senate during the last two days of the session has not yet reached us. It has probably gone on an excursion by trail to some remote corner of the State from whence it will return within the reasonable time of a fortnight or two. Meantime we shall look out for another copy —ED OREGONIAN]

Mustang Liniment.

OVER A MILLION DOLLARS SAVED!

Gentlemen —"I had a negro man worth $1 200 who took cold from a bad hurt in the leg, and was useless for over a year I had used everything I could hear of without benefit, until I tried the Mexican Mustang Liniment It soon effected a permanent cure"
J L DOWNING
Montgomery, Ala., June 17 1859.

I take pleasure in recommending the Mexican Mustang Liniment as a valuable and indispensable article for Sprains, Sores Scratches or Galls on Horses. Our men have used it for Burns, Bruises, Sores, Rheumatism &c , and all say it acts like magic. J. W HEWITT
Foreman American, Wells, Fargo's and Harnden's Express.

The sprain of my daughter's ankle, occasioned while skating last winter was entirely cured in one week, after she commenced using your celebrated Mustang Liniment
Gloucester, Mass., Aug 1 1865 ED SEELY

It is an admitted fact that the Mexican Mustang Liniment performs more cures in shorter time, on man and beast than any article ever discovered. Families, livery men and planters should always have it on hand. Quick and sure it certainly is All genuine is wrapped in steel plate engravings, bearing U. S. Stamp of Demas Barnes & Co over the top.

An effort has been made to counterfeit it with a cheap stone-plate label Look closely!

Address of the National Union Committee to the American People.

Fellow Citizens: Very grave differences having arisen between your immediate representatives in Congress and the President who owes his position to your votes, we are impelled to ask your attention thereto and to suggest the duties to your country which they render imperative.

We shall avoid the use of hard words. Of these there have already been too many. And, that the matters in issue may be brought within the narrowest compass, let us first eliminate from the controversy all that has already been settled or that has never been in dispute.

The Republic has been desperately assailed from within, and its very existence seriously imperilled. Thirteen States were claimed as having withdrawn from the Union, and were represented for years in a hostile Congress, meeting at Richmond. Ten of these States were, for a time, wholly in the power of a hostile Confederacy; the other three partially so. The undoubtedly loyal States were repeatedly and formidably invaded by rebel armies, which were only expelled after obstinate and bloody battles. Through four years of arduous, desperate civil strife, the hosts of the rebel Confederacy withstood those of the Union. Agents of that Confederacy traversed the civilized world, seeking allies in their war against the Republic, and inciting the rapacious and unprincipled to fit out armed corsairs to prey upon her commerce. By State authority, and in the perverted names of patriotism and loyalty, hundreds of thousands of our countrymen were conscripted into rebel armies and made to fight desperately for our national disruption and ruin. And though, by the blessing of God and the valor and constancy of our loyal people, the rebellion was finally and utterly crushed, it did not succumb until it had caused the destruction of more than half a million of precious human lives, not to speak of property to the value of at least five billion dollars.

At length, the rebel armies surrendered and the rebel power utterly collapsed and vanished. What then?

The claim of the insurgents that they either now re-acquired or had never forfeited their constitutional rights to the Union, including that of representation in Congress, stands in pointed antagonism alike to the requirements of Congress and to those of the acting President. It was the Executive alone who, after the rebellion was no more, appointed Provisional Governors for the now submissive, unarmed Southern States, on the assumption that the rebellion had been "revolutionary," and had deprived the people under its sway of all civil government, and who required the assembling of a "Convention, composed of delegates to be chosen by that portion of people of said State who are loyal to the United States, and no others, for the purpose of altering and amending the Constitution of said State." It was President Johnson who so late as October last—when all shadow of overt resistance to the Union had long since disappeared—insisted that it was not enough that a State which had revolted must recognise her ordinance of secession as null and void from the beginning, and ratify the Constitutional amendment prohibiting slavery evermore, but she must also repudiate "every dollar of indebtedness created to aid and in carrying on the rebellion." It was he who ordered the dispersion by military force of any Legislature chosen under the rebellion which should assume power to make laws after that rebellion had fallen. It was he who referred to Congress all inquiries as to the probability of representatives from the States lately in revolt being admitted to seats in either House, and suggested that they should present their credentials, not at the organization of Congress, but afterward. And finally, it was he and not Congress who suggested to his Governor Sharkey of Mississippi that "if you could extend the elective franchise to all persons of color who can read the Constitution of the United States in English and write their names, and to all persons of color who own real estate valued at not less than $250 and pay taxes thereon, you would completely disarm the adversary and set an example that other States will follow."

If, then, there is any controversy as to the right of the loyal States to exact conditions and require guarantees of those which plunged madly into secession and rebellion, the supporters respectively of Andrew Johnson and of Congress cannot be antagonist parties to that contest, since their record places them on the same side.

It being thus agreed that conditions of restoration and guarantees against future rebellion may be exacted of the States lately in revolt, the right of Congress to a voice in prescribing those conditions and in shaping those guarantees is plainly incontestible. Whether it takes the shape of law or of a Constitutional amendment, the action of Congress is vital. Even if they were to be settled by treaty, the ratification of the Senate, by a two-thirds vote, would be indispensable. There is nothing in the Federal Constitution nor in the nature of the case, that countenances an Executive monopoly of this power.

What, then, is the ground of complaint against Congress?

It is charged that the action of the two Houses was tardy and hesitating? Consider how momentous were the questions involved, the issues depending. Consider how novel and extraordinary was the situation. Consider how utterly silent and blank is the Federal Constitution touching the treatment of insurgent States, whether during their flagrant hostility to the Union or after their discomfiture. Consider with how many embarrassments and difficulties the problem is beset, and you will not wonder that months were required to devise, perfect, and pass, by a two-thirds vote in either House, a just and safe plan of reconstruction.

Yet that plan has been matured. It has passed the Senate by 33 to 11, and the House by 138 to 36. It is now fairly before the country, having already been ratified by the Legislatures of several States and rejected by none. Under it, the State of Tennessee has been formally restored to all the privileges she forfeited by rebellion, including representation in either House of Congress. And the door thus passed through stands invitingly open to all who still linger without.

Are the conditions thus prescribed intolerable; or even humiliating? They are in substance these:

First—All persons born or naturalized in this country are henceforth citizens of the United States, and shall enjoy all the rights of citizens evermore; and no State shall have power to contravene this most righteous and necessary provision.

Second—While the States claim and exercise the power of denying the elective franchise to a part of their people, the weight of each State in the Union shall be measured by and based upon its enfranchised population. If any State shall choose, for no crime, to deny political rights to any race or caste, it must no longer count the race or caste as a basis of political power in the Union.

Third—He who has once held office on the strength of his solemn oath to support the Federal Constitution, and has nevertheless forsworn himself and treasonably plotted to subvert that Constitution, shall henceforth hold no political office till Congress, by a two-thirds vote, shall remove or modify the disability.

Fourth—The national debt shall be nowise repudiated nor invalidated; and no debt incurred in support of the rebellion shall ever be assumed or paid, by any State; nor shall payment be made for the loss or emancipation of any slave.

Fifth—Congress shall have power to enforce those guarantees by separate legislation.

Such, fellow-citizens, are the conditions of reconstruction proposed by Congress and already accepted by the loyal Legislature of Tennessee. Are they harsh or degrading? Do you discern therein a disposition to trample on the prostrate or push an advantage to the uttermost? Do they embody aught of vengeance, or any confiscation but that of slavery? We solicit your candid, impartial judgment.

What is intended by the third section is simply to give loyalty a fair start in the reconstructed States. Under the Johnson policy the rebels monopolize power and place even in communities where they are decidedly outnumbered. Their Generals are Governors and members elect of Congress; their colonels and Majors fill the Legislatures and officiate as Sheriffs. Not only are the steadfastly loyal proscribed, but even stay-at-home rebels have little chance in competition with those who fought to subvert the Union. When this rebel monopoly of office shall have been broken up, and loyalty to the Union shall have become general and hearty, Congress may remove the disability, and will doubtless make haste to do so.

We do not perceive that the justice or fitness of the fourth section—prescribing that the Union public debt shall be promptly met, but that of the rebel Confederacy never—is seriously contested.

There remains then, but the second section, which prescribes in substance that political power in the Union shall henceforth be based only on that portion of the people of each State who are deemed by its Constitution fit depositaries of such power. In other words: A State which chooses to hold part of its population in ignorance and vassalage—powerless, uneducated, unfranchised—shall not count that portion to balance the educated, intelligent, enfranchised citizens of other States.

We do not propose to argue the justice of this provision. As well argue the shape of a cube or the correctness of the multiplication table. He who does not feel that this is simply and mildly just, would not be persuaded though one rose from the dead to convince him. That there are those among us who would not have it ratified, sadly demonstrate that the good work of emancipation is not yet complete.

"But," say some, "this section is desired to coerce the South into according suffrage to her blacks." Not so, we reply; but only to notify her ruling caste that we will no longer bribe them to keep their blacks to serfdom. An aristocracy rarely surrenders its privileges, no matter how oppressive, from abstract devotion to justice and right. It must have cogent, palpable reasons for so doing. We say, therefore, to South Carolina, "If you persistently restrict all power to your 300,000 whites, we must insist that these no longer balance, in Congress and the choice of President, 700,000 Northern white freemen, but only 300,000. If you keep your blacks evermore in serfdom, it must not be because we tempted you so to do and rewarded you for so doing."

Fellow citizens of every State, but especially of those soon to hold elections, we entreat your earnest, constant heed to the grave questions now at issue. If those who so wantonly plunged the Union into civil war shall be allowed by you to dictate the terms of reconstruction, you will have heedlessly sown the bitter seeds of future rebellion and bloody strife. Already you are threatened with a recognition by the President of a sham Congress, made up of the factions which recently coalesced at Philadelphia on a platform of Johnsonism—a Congress constituted by nullifying and overriding a plain law of the land—a Congress wholly inspired from the White House, and appealing to the sword for support. So glaring an attempt at usurpation would be even more criminal than absurd. Happily, the people, by electing an overwhelming majority of thoroughly loyal representatives, are rendering its initiation impossible.

We cannot close without a most deserved tribute to the general fidelity wherewith, in view of the President's defection, the great body of the people, and even of the Federal office-holders, stood fast by their convictions and principles. The boundless patronage of the Executive, though most unscrupulously wielded against those to whose votes he owes it, has corrupted very few, either of those who shared or of those who would gladly share in its enjoyment. Not one of the twenty-two States which voted to re-elect Abraham Lincoln has given in its adhesion to the President's policy; while New Jersey—the only free State that voted against him—has added herself to their number.

Our great war has taught impressively the peril of injustice; and the lesson has sunk deep into millions of hearts. The American people, chastened by suffering, are wiser and nobler than they were, with a quicker and more open ear for every generous suggestion. The fearful lessons of Memphis and New Orleans have not been lost on them, as is proved by the result of the recent elections in Vermont and Maine. We cherish no shadow of doubt that Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Iowa, first, then New York, New Jersey, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Kansas and Minnesota, will do likewise, and that a true restoration, a genuine, abiding peace will thus be secured to our country—a peace that will endure, because based on the everlasting foundations of humanity, justice and freedom.

Signed: Marcus L. Ward, New Jersey, Chairman. John D. Defrees, Indiana, Secretary. Horace Greeley, New York; S. A. Purviance, Pennsylvania; William Claflin, Massachusetts; N. B. A Monster Meteor.—The Reese River Reveille of October 8th, relates the following:

We learn from Alonzo Monroe that while he and party were in the Reveille District, which lies about one hundred and thirty miles southeast of Austin, on the 28th of September, a singular phenomena occurred. It was perhaps nine o'clock at night, and the men were lying asleep on the ground, when Monroe was awakened by some cause, and, looking around, was astonished at seeing the surrounding country lighted up as if by an extensive fire. On the instant the light became brilliant and intense, and an immense body, glowing with incandescent heat, moved rapidly through the atmosphere in a southerly direction. Monroe describes it as the grandest spectacle he ever witnessed. As the meteor disappeared the light gradually paled, and soon faded altogether, leaving only the starlight. In from ten to twenty seconds after the disappearance of the body the now thoroughly awakened party heard a quick succession of thundering sounds from the southward, resembling vast masses of hurtling rocks, which reverberated through the mountains for several seconds. It was undoubtedly an enormous meteor, which had fallen and crushed the summit of a mountain not very distant from the camp of the party. Monroe represents the vast body as without any particular shape and as "large as a church." Even now, in his cooler moments, he insists that it was as "large as a small house." Meteors are composed generally of masses of stone and native iron, and Dana says the most remarkable masses of meteoric iron occur in South America, where there is one whose weight is estimated at thirty thousand pounds. We think the meteor observed by the Monroe party well worth looking after, and hope prospectors in that section will give it their attention.

SOMETHING NEW!
THE NEW LIGHT!
DANFORD'S
Atmospheric Coal Oil Gas Lamp!

Artificial light of some sort, is a universal necessity. A Safe, Cheap and Brilliant one is a Luxury—a luxury only enjoyed heretofore by those who live in large cities where this is used. Years of study, and much capital have been exhausted in experiments to produce a lamp wherein the ordinary Kerosene or Coal Oil could be used without a chimney, and without unpleasant odor while in use. That fruitful source of expense, trouble and annoyance, the chimney, is in DANFORD'S COAL OIL GAS LAMP avoided; it is the most perfect Lamp and will entirely supersede all other Coal Oil Lamps; it is the cheapest artificial light that can be used, yielding the light of an ordinary six foot Gas burner for less than ½ cent per hour, or double the quantity of light of an ordinary Chimney Lamp, for one third the cost. It will burn when turned down to a taper-light, ten hours for a cent, is free from smoke, can be carried from room to room and the wind will not blow it out. These LAMPS will be on exhibition and for sale at the Music and Art Gallery of Shanahan & Dufrene, corner of Morrison and First streets.
